ABOARD WILLKIE TRAIN EN ROUTE TO CLEVELAND, Oct. 2—Wendell Willkie made his last Michigan stop today and headed into Ohio after offering labor in the motor capital of the world strong inducements to vote him into the Presidency.

What Willkie offered in Detroit, Pontiac, Flint, Lansing and Grand Rapids was jobs, a secretary of labor appointed from labor's ranks and continuance and strengthening of the New Deal social program.

Today he was heading for Cleveland to discuss foreign policy. Michigan's reception of the candidate ranged from distinct hostility to enthusiastic interest. Detroit, Pontiac and Flint among the motor cities were cool, Lansing was slightly warmer and Grand Rapids really warmed to the candidate, giving

Private Funeral For Doylestown Photographer

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 2—The funeral of Gustave Sanders, 56, well known photographer with a studio here for the past 25 years, will be private tomorrow from his late residence, with interment in the Doylestown Cemetery.

Sanders, who committed suicide Monday afternoon in his studio by hanging himself from a rope attached to a ladder leading to a loft, was prominent throughout the State in the Moose fraternity, of which organization he was a member for 25 years and an officer for the past 15 years. Sanders was secretary of the Doylestown Moose at the time of his death and in addition was a member of the Legion and Fellowship degrees of that order and was a candidate for the honored Pilgrim degree that was to have been conferred on him at Mooseheart this winter.

Sanders' place as secretary at the Doylestown Moose has been filled by the appointment of an acting secretary, Calvin Roberts, of Doylestown, an officer of the Doylestown National Bank and Trust Company.

Sanders left a note to his wife and 14-year-old daughter, stating that he was not feeling well and was sorry that he was forced to take his life.

Exonerated in Death
Of A Bristol Man

DOYLESTOWN, Oct. 2—A Coroner's jury at an inquest conducted by Dr. H. Clayton Moyer here yesterday exonerated Frederick McRae, 40, Negro, of 453 Summit avenue, Willow Grove, from all responsibility in the death of Joseph Saxton, a Bucks County inmate, who was accidentally shot on August 26 on the County Home grounds in Doylestown township.

Saxton, a former resident of Bristol, died in the Doylestown Emergency Hospital, four days after he was shot by the Negro hunter who was looking for groundhogs at the time of the accident.

The jury consisted of W. Lester Trauch, foreman, Mrs. Della Hoffman, Mrs. Elsie M. Connard, Mrs. Blanche G. Spare and Tax Collector Russell B. Gulick, all of Doylestown, and John H. Gulick, Blooming Glen.

The Negro defendant testified that he heard no one in the woods while he was hunting groundhogs. Saxton was hit by a shot fired by McRae, who thought that he saw a groundhog moving but accidentally hit Saxton instead.

1,600 Attend The Marriage
Of Brothers and Sisters

BLOOMING GLEN, Oct. 2—Nearly 1,600 assembled in Blooming Glen Mennonite Church, on Saturday, for the double wedding which united sisters and twin brothers.

The principals, members of that church, were Miss Dorothy S. Moyer and Miss Alice S. Moyer, who became the brides of twin brothers, H. Leroy and I. Stanley Rosenberger, respectively. The brides are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin D. Moyer, Silverdale, and the parents of the grooms are Mr. and Mrs. Isaac G. Rosenberger, Silverdale.

Promptly at 1:30 o'clock, during the singing of a hymn by a chorus in the balcony of the church, the brides, attired in white tulle, approached the pulpit, where Rev. Melvin A. Bishop, a minister of the church performed the nuptials. The grooms entered the church with Rev. Wilson Moyer, who during the service, delivered a brief and appropriate address. Throughout the ceremony three other appropriate hymns were rendered by the chorus under the direction of Leidy D. Hunsicker.

The ushers included Abram Rosenberger, Nace's Corner, and Norman Landis, New Galena, cousins of the grooms, and Austin Kulp, Silverdale, and Joseph Moyer, Blooming Glen.

A reception was tendered the two couples at the Silverdale fire house, where approximately 60 invited guests were served a dinner. After the reception the couples left for a week's honeymoon trip by motor to Virginia. The trip will include Skyline Drive, Natural Bridge and other points of interest enroute.

Upon their return the couples will reside at the home of the grooms' parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. G. Rosenberger, Silverdale.

Fans Await Start of World Series

Cincinnati, Oct. 2—Temperatures of baseball fans rose to the boiling point in Cincinnati today under the impetus of World Series fever for the opening game between the National League Reds and the American League's Detroit Tigers.

Licensed ticket speculators mingled with rollicking throngs in the hope of finding some hapless fan who would be willing to pay double the regular price for a chance to push through the crowd at Crosley Field.

While all seats, and standing room, was reported sold to an estimated 32,000 supporters of both teams, officials estimated there were plenty of tickets in the hands of speculators. One ticket seller, operating within the law in suburban Norwood, was reported willing to sell three grandstand seats for $35. Their value is $16.95.

Window space in several factory buildings near the stadium was said to be selling for from $2 to $3 per person.

She Was Two Hours Early

There was lack of co-operation in a household in the third ward during the week-end, and the result proved most disturbing to one member of the home.

The husband advanced the clock one hour before retiring, recalling that daylight saving time was at an end.

When the wife arose the following morning she wondered at the others sleeping so late, but prepared to attend morning church service. It was not until arrival at the edifice of worship that she discovered she was two hours early, returning home to bide her time.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Plans are being completed by the Morrisville Father's Association for its annual Father and Son banquet, at the high school cafeteria in Summerseat on Wednesday evening, October 9th, at 6:30.

The committee, including Paul Taylor, E. Leonard Caum, John Gontar and J. Wilber Sauder, announced today that a limited reservation of 60 fathers and sons would be necessary to seat the group in the cafeteria. Speakers and entertainment are being secured by Alvin R. Pratt and Manoaah R. Reiter, with President William H. Howell, David Lukens and John Gontar in charge of decorations. A roast turkey supper will be served by Misses Adelaide Mason and Margaret Watkins.

NASE-KRAFT POST HAS ACQUIRED A NEW HOME

Purchased Property At Sellersville At Cost of $7000; To Renovate

TO INCORPORATE POST

SELLERSVILLE, Oct. 2—Nase-Kraft Post of the American Legion is to have its own home. The decision to purchase followed a two-year discussion on the part of the Legionnaires, with the result that they have acquired the former Charles Hobart residence at Washington and Church streets. The purchase price was $7,000. Included in this cost is the $500 required for some renovations.

Ralph Schlichter, commander of Nase-Kraft Post, presided. He did not vote on the purchase because he is an officer of the Sellersville Building and Loan Association, which will finance the project. The association also will see to it that the post is made ready to house the veterans of World War I, by about October, which by coincidence is the time when the local group of boys will register for World War II.

The transfer of the title cannot be made until the post is incorporated. It probably will take the name of Nase-Kraft Post, American Legion, Incorporated.

During the meeting Lester Kraft, Sellersville, was selected commander to succeed Commander Schlichter. Kraft had held the office once before. His brother, who was killed in France, caused the Kraft name to be used in the official post title.

Other officers include the following: Walter B. Leiby, first vice-commander; Dr. C. A. Paulus, Telford, second vice-commander; Willard Freed, Sellersville, adjutant; Paul Frazer, Sellersville, finance officer; L. N. Snyder, Sellersville, historian; Rev. James Shepley, Sellersville, chaplain; Dr. C. R. Flory, Sellersville, welfare officer.

The place was originally built for David D. Crossman several decades ago. He said that it is well insulated, having an air space between two layers of brick and that it cost considerably more than the price the Legion Post has been asked to pay.

Legionnaire Kraft enlisted June 12, 1917, at Philadelphia; joined Troop M 22nd Cavalry, at Fort Oglethorpe, Ga. He transferred to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., being assigned to Battery C, 31st Field Artillery of the 81st (Wildcat) Division, and received the rank of sergeant September 14, 1917.

He served in the A. E. F. from August 8, 1918 to June 11, 1919, being mustered out of the service at Camp Dix, June 18, 1919. As a Legionnaire he became post commander here in 1922, adjutant from 1923 to 1936, finance officer 1927 to 1935, second vice-commander in 1929. He also is a member of the Bucks County Volture, No. 929, 40 at 8.

The Newtown Garden Club flower show held in the Newtown New Century Club was one of the finest in years, with 195 entries showing unusual perfection of bloom. Despite the rain about 150 attended the show during the afternoon and evening.

The sweepstakes winner was Mrs. George Ghebeles. The judges were Edward Matthews and John Matthews, of Mount Airy, and John MacIndoe, of Newtown.

Fifteen women connected with the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. Walter W. Ely, New Hope, is the president, were included among the 400 women who attended the 18th annual meeting of the Southeastern District of the State Federation of Women's Clubs held in the Central Y. M. C. A. in Reading a few days ago.

Several of the Bucks county representatives took part on the program, which was in charge of the district president, Mrs. F. E. Magee. The hostess on this occasion was the Berks County Federation of Women's Clubs, of which Mrs. James A. Shook is the president.

Mrs. Ely was one of nine county federation presidents who outlined in the form of an acrostic some of the qualities of a women's club president. These qualities, it was pointed out, should embrace personality, resourcefulness, enthusiasm, sincerity, intelligence, dependability, neatness and tactfulness, thoughtfulness and thankfulness. Mrs. Ely commented on the subject of resourcefulness.

Mrs. James M. Sellenberger, president of the Doylestown V. I. A., took part in a discussion of presidents' problems, and the subject of her comments was "I Solved My Difficulty." The chairman of the fine arts department of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, Mrs. Kathryn Graham, took part during the afternoon session in a symposium on "Putting Across the State Program," and Mrs. Irvin L. MacNair, publicity chairman of the Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs, took part in the same symposium.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

Booms, Curbs, Theories

Washington, Oct. 1.

THE complete silence on the subject of Federal finances observed by the Democratic platform and, since its adoption, by Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Wallace, the candidates running on that platform, is in some ways the most extraordinary feature of the whole third-term attempt. It seems, in itself, an unanswerable argument against continuing an administration which has made so shocking a mess of the fiscal affairs of the nation that it calculates refrains from mentioning them.

—O—

THE clear Roosevelt policy in this campaign is to ignore the financial situation. Such things as debts, deficits and budgets are barred from discussion. Those words nowhere appear in the platform and no Administration spokesman from the President down ever utters them. Apparently they have been stricken from the New Deal lexicon. No amount of criticism or attack brings a response on that score. For example, the figures presented in the Senate two weeks ago by Senator Byrd, of Virginia, went unnoticed by any Administration spokesman.

—O—

YET, they are as staggering as they are accurate. Indicating the utter inadequacy of the financial program, Mr. Byrd made the statement that before it adjourned this Congress would have directly obligated the Government, either by appropriations or authorizations, to at least $25,000,000,000, exclusive of obligations issued by the Government and guaranteed by the Treasury. Conservative estimates place expenditures this year at $15,000,000,000 and against

With congratulatory remarks upon service of the past 100 years in the community, the Rev. Zerr, who was introduced by the Rev. Charles Weller, Morrisville, added: "However age doesn't mean much; it depends on whether you are old in years or young in spirit." The time required to grow a mushroom, sunflower, and an oak tree were compared, at the outset of the address, the congregation being reminded however that all these wither

Synagogue Services To Mark Jewish New Year

Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year, begins at sundown tonight.

There have been 5791 Rosh Hashanas in the Hebrew calendar since the traditional Creation.

Services begin in all synagogues at sundown and will continue tomorrow. The Reform celebration of the New Year will end tomorrow, but the Orthodox and Conservative celebration will last two days, with rites Friday also.

New Year services will be conducted at the synagogue, 119 Pond street, by the Rev. Emanuel Kahn tonight at 7 p. m. tomorrow at 8 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.; Friday at 8 a. m. and 5:30 p. m.

The Shofar, or ram's horn, will sound, calling upon Jews to ponder the deeds of the past year. On that day also it is believed that God begins to sit in judgment upon them during a 10-day penitential period which ends with Yom Kippur, Day of Atonement, the final day of judgment.

Prayers, asking forgiveness for any sins committed during the year, will be offered during the penitential period, and the time is one not only for making one's peace with God, but with man.

An ancient Talmudic story recounts that on Rosh Hashana, the books of heaven are brought before the Lord to judge the peoples of the earth for their deeds of the year. Names of the good and bad, the story says, are inscribed in the books at once, but the fate of the others is not decided until Yom Kippur.

This tradition gives rise to the old Hebrew New Year greeting, "May you be inscribed for a happy year."

Board Transacts Business At Regular Monthly
Session

Last night Bristol school board, previous to assembling in regular monthly session, visited the vocational educational classes which are being conducted in connection with the national defense program.

The directors saw 560 men earnestly studying blue print reading and receiving instruction in 19 class rooms in the Bristol high school building. One hundred and twenty additional men joined the classes last night.

The directors also made a hurried trip of inspection of the high school building, under the guidance of David Hertzer, high school principal. Numerous places where improvements are needed, in the physical aspects of the building, were noted.

The school board, following the trip of inspection, convened in monthly session. There were two absentees, Mrs. William G. Harding and Robert C. Ruell.

John Johnson, treasurer, submitted his monthly report and the board voted to transfer $8,000 from the general fund to the sinking fund account.

George P. Bailey submitted an estimated of $67.50 for making some wiring changes and placing new lights in the old Wood street building. This matter was referred to the property committee of which Arthur P. Brady is chairman.

Mrs. Horace N. Davis reported having visited the two buildings at Wood street and also the Bath street building.

An appropriation of $50 was voted toward the expenses of schoolmen's week.

Mr. Hertzer submitted the monthly report of Warren P. Snyder, school superintendent, in which it was noted that the Bristol teaching facility volunteered its services to the community for October 16th, registration day.

YELLOW MENACE GROWS

Implications of the Japanese invasion of Indo-China and the completion of a military alliance between Germany, Italy and Japan are almost too obvious to require comment. Both acts are, and are intended to be, hostile to the United States.

Of the plundering nations only Russia is missing from the lineup, apparently in line with the strategy under which Italy pretended neutrality for eight months of the war in Europe. Italy was of more benefit to Hitler as a "neutral" than she could have been as a belligerent, as her military record since she entered the conflict proves.

Russia, at the moment, can be of greater aid to the German-Italian-Japanese combine if she pretends neutrality toward the United States. The lines of espionage in the United States must be kept open to the dictators, and it appears that the Russian embassy has been selected to play this role.

The latest moves of the dictators, affecting American interests in the East, present an alarming menace to this nation's sources of supply of rubber and tin. Severing a large part of these vital imports to the United States probably is the immediate objective of Hitler and the Japs.

A showdown between Japan and the United States is rapidly approaching, and when it comes American action will not be confined to such moves as enlarging exports of scrap metal to Japan or the extension of piddling loans to China.

UNFIT PHYSICALLY

The physical standards the Army and Navy set up for candidates for voluntary enlistment are high. But they are not so near perfection that it is possible to view with equanimity the percentage of young men who are failing to meet them.

According to recruiting officers, four of every six candidates, and upwards, fail to pass. And a great many more are rejected after only a preliminary interview, being judged certain to fail the physical examination.

The principle single causes of rejection are defective teeth and eyes. Some officials believe the depression is to blame. Medical and dental attention have been slighted by families in straitened circumstances and of course the depression diet of many has been sub-standard.

But Lieut.-Col. Joseph L. Bachus, a recruiting officer, apparently believes the causes are in part at least of even longer standing. Twenty-four years of experience with troops has convinced him, he says, that there has been a general deterioration in physical fitness.

The results, as indicated at the recruiting offices, certainly seem to bear him out. Deterioration in the physical fitness of the nation's youth is a national calamity.

Never has the U. S. Army had as tough a task as trying to make minute men out of softies who have been taking two hours for lunch.

which tax revenue, including that from the pending bill, will be $6,600,000,000, leaving a deficit of $8,000,000,000. Actually, even with the new bill, the total revenue will not be enough to pay for the non-defense spending. In brief, after every item of defense is eliminated, the strictly non-defense expenditures will exceed $7,000,000,000. With total revenues $6,600,000,000, there thus will be a shortage of nearly $500,000,000 in the ordinary peacetime Governmental expenditures.

—O—
IN face of these indisputable figures, Mr. Roosevelt — and Mr. Roosevelt's friends — simply keep quiet. Apparently, the idea is that, so far as the voters are concerned, this dull business of national finance does not interest them, and if it is ignored it cannot be made into an issue. At any rate, ignored it is. It is an ominous state of affairs, and it will be more ominous still if the third-term movement succeeds. Because the New Deal economists, like the New Deal President, have no thought of making any effort to recover national financial equilibrium. On the contrary, their program means that in the next few years the debt will reach heights, the deficit depths heretofore undreamed of. Most thoughtful men see in this a great national peril, with repudi-

"Where'd he come from—off'n the old oil tanker what came in this mornin'?"

As for Geneva Benet, she found herself looking at a leanly adequate back garbed in a curious coat. It was gray and had red piped shoulder straps, and on the stranger's head was set a jaunty military cap of unfamiliar design. She caught at his arm.

"No, don't interfere," she panted in a fierce undertone, "don't mix in on this. They'll kill you."

"Will they?" Deep set blue eyes that were both hard and bitter, bristled down at her. "You started this," the stranger snapped. "Haven't you got nerve enough to when the hard bitten young man adroitly dodged a pile driver blow. "Yah! Fight! Quit stalling!" An oysterman suddenly pushed the stranger off balance thus enabling Ferguson, snarling and red faced, to land a short forearm jab to the side of his enemy's jaw. At the resounding smack! Geneva Benet flinched and expected to see the slighter figure go over backwards. She had, you see, witnessed all too many fights since coming to Patuxtown. "Now y'a got him, Fergie. Kick his ugly face in!" shouted the on-lookers. "Go for his eyes!" No one cried "shame!" since anything from savage to mayhem goes in oysterman fighting.

"Now y'a got him, Fergie. Kick his ugly face in!" shouted the on-lookers. "Go for his eyes!" No one cried "shame!" since anything from savage to mayhem goes in oysterman fighting.

At once the oysterman lurched back with a ludicrous expression of surprise.

see it out; or are they right about you?" "No! Ferguson lies!" she blazed. "But I—"

"Then get out of the way—" Impatiently, he shook her off and again faced the girl's persecutor.

"Are you going to let this young lady talk, or aren't you?"

Ferguson's answer was a vicious swing at the stranger's jaw. Penned in by the fog, the crowd seemed suddenly enormous, with waterproof hats, baseball caps, seamen's caps bordering the entire visible world.

"Hey, fellars, let's give 'em room."

Gangling loafers in rusty blue jerseys and tobacco stained dungarees promptly fell back.

"Sook that buttin' in tin soldier," someone yelled. "Whereja' get 'at trick coat?"

Beneath her tight gray jersey sweater, Geneva Benet's heart beat even more furiously. Mears had been right. She shouldn't have come to Patuxtown on Saturday when burgues, pungsies and shallows were in—along with oysters, booze and the devil. How would this brawl end? Merely in battered faces and skinned knuckles or in staccato stunts, followed by sudden significant silence? Ferguson, as she well knew, was a terrible rough-and-tumble fighter.

She was almost by when an eddy of the crowd halted her, at the same time exposing the battleground. In the center of the cleared space Ferguson, powerful and thick bodied, was wrenching off his coat. Boys and men, rank with fish odors and stale sweat, crowded in.

The big oysterman drove a vicious right at this wiry stranger who was of about equal height. The second combatant ducked under the blow and at the same time quickly cast loose the buttons of his uniform coat. His face, she saw, was so high cheek-boned as to be almost Indian-like in cast, and though it was young there were lines in it that ought not to have been there and a dull red scar traversed his jaw from mouth to chin.

Geneva Benet suddenly found herself inexplicably curious to know why he had wandered to Patuxtown. "Stand and fight, yuh, yellah monkey!" roared the oysterman ation, inflation and disastrous bankruptcy the inevitable end.

BUT, the New Deal economists, upon whom Mr. Roosevelt relies, have no such fears. They concede—in fact, claim—that a big business boom is about to start as a result of armament expenditures; that in 1941 there will be "great business." The general price level will rise and the cost of living mount. This, it is said, will be offset by higher wages and governmental regulation. Twenty billions are to be spent in the next four years, which means the creation of much new money through the system of exchanging bonds to banks for checking accounts. However, though all idea of cutting down costs has been abandoned, the Administration does not fear inflation. The boom can be controlled and inflation checked by "applying curbs." Further taxes are to be avoided by increasing the national income to one hundred billions, thus providing the revenue to support a debt of seventy billions.

—O—
THAT is the theory. It is a sickening thing that anything as flabby and sleazy as this could be advanced as a theory in a great national crisis, particularly as that is the theory which each year since 1933 has been proven fallacious. Yet it is all they have. Literally there is no other Administration program for meeting the situation created by the contemplated expenditure of $25,000,000,000. As to "curbs," no one knows what "curbs" exist, who would apply them or how.

THE whole thing is fantastic. The lack of grasp upon fundamentals, the deliberate policy of pushing aside consideration of the facts, the incredible refusal to face realities; the bewilderment that exists among so many of the financial officials of the Government and the sheer futility of the few among them clear headed enough to recognize the danger—all this is pretty appalling. It is made the more so by the awful complacency of a President who thinks the facts can be safely ignored, that those who call attention to them are vicious, and that things will come out all right if you just leave them to him.

West Chester Resident Is Bride of Langhorne Man

LANGHORNE, Oct. 2—The marriage of Miss Eleanor Marie Faber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Faber, West Chester, to Mr. Francis Lynn Tomlinson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ezekiel Tomlinson, Langhorne, took place in Langhorne Methodist Church, Saturday, at four o'clock p. m. The Rev. Walter F. Humphrey, pastor, officiated.

Prior to the ceremony, the organist, Mrs. Blanche Hetherington, rendered a program of music.

Mrs. Jesse W. Carter sang "God Gave Me You" and "O Promise Me."

The bride wore a gown of white satin with finger-tip length veil, and carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli, roses and asters. Her attendant was her sister, Miss Dawn Faber, of Bristol, who was attired in a dress of old rose taffeta, and carried a bouquet of gladioli, roses and orchid asters.

Mr. Pemberton M. Tomlinson, Langhorne, served as best man for his brother. The ushers were: Messrs. Howard Tomlinson, brother of the groom; and Harry Rice, both of Langhorne.

A reception followed in the memorial house. After a wedding trip to New York and Massachusetts, Mr. and Mrs. Tomlinson will reside on West Maple avenue.

Children's Parties

All summer long the smaller members of the family have been enjoying their "picnic parties" in the woods, at the lake or perhaps on the front porch. These are very simple parties so far as food is concerned. A few sandwiches, some cookies and milk — and perfect satisfaction is assured.

But now we have our indoor parties to consider — much more elaborate social events in the child's life. Marjorie and Margaret come "all dressed up." Games are in order. A nice dessert is anticipated.

You will want to keep away from too heavy foods or too much food, particularly if these are afternoon gatherings where luncheon is served only a few hours before the home dinner. Here's a suggestion for an economical, healthful dessert that calls for no eggs, no baking or no boiling — but that will always please your little guests:

Vanilla Rennet-Custard
1 package vanilla rennet powder
1 pint milk, ordinary or homogenized
½ cup whipping cream
¼ cup sugar
Make rennet-custard according to directions on package. Then chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, whip the cream, adding sugar and mixing well. Squeeze through a pastry tube and decorate top of each rennet-custard. Garnish with sliced marshmallows or colorful candies.

Today's Quiet Moment

(By Howard L. Zepp, Th. M.)

Father, it is so easy to make life a humdrum existence, to make "safety first" our constant motto, never to take a risk, never to build any "castles," never get our eyes off the road just in front of us. Grant us the courage to take risks, to climb mountain peaks, to lift our eyes to far distant horizons, to live by faith, to measure success not according to dollars but in terms of character development. Amen.

Ann Sothorn and Lee Bowman, aided and abetted by Slim Summerville and Virginia Weidler, provide some of the season's most hilarious and heart-warming comedy in "Gold Rush Maisie," third in the popular series dealing with the adventures of the stranded showgirl, which opened Tuesday at the Grand Theatre for two days.

Miss Sothorn was never in finer fettle with her wisecracks and timely homilies than in the Arizona desert setting in which this latest adventure finds her. Enroute to a cate-singing job in a small Arizona town, her jallopy breaks down and leaves her adrift on the desert. Lee Bowman as Bill Anders, young ranch owner, comes to her rescue but withdraws his welcome when she dodges his advances.

OWL GIRLS TO OPEN HOCKEY SEASON AT BENSALEM TODAY

Bensalem Girls To Launch Drive to Win 1940 Campaign

A GOOD COMBINATION

Owl Girls, Last Year, Finished Season With An Even 500 Record

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 2.—Bent upon the task of capturing their first Lower Bucks field hockey championship, Bensalem Owlets will launch their drive to achieve that goal when they inaugurate the 1940 campaign against the Langhorne "Squaws" here this afternoon.

On paper the Blue and Gray girls have perhaps the best combination in the loop. So if their performances on the field of action, where championships are won and lost, are as good as the advance information implies them to be, they should be able to conquer the balance of the league clubs to cap the crown. However, even with a top-notch team, the feat of capturing the title should be no cinch for any team.

Last year the Owl girls came up with an even 500 record which was their best season since joining the circuit three years ago. That year—1939—they won a trio of decisions, and dropped the same number, mixing in a tie in their other league fracas. But since they entered the league when it first came into existence in 1937, the Owlets have shown steady improvement with each succeeding campaign.

Now, with many of the girls who learned hockey from eighth grade on up, in their Junior and Senior years at Bensalem, coach Helen Smith has a fine collection of stars on her 1940 squad.

For no less than nine of the eleven starters along with a few of the more prominent substitutions, are back for more action this season. Included among the holdovers from the 1939 combination is the entire defense with the exception of the goalie, and four of the five who composed the forward line.

The schedule for 1940:

Date	Opponent	Where
Wed., Oct. 2	Langhorne—Home
Wed., Oct. 3	Richboro—Home
Wed., Oct. 10	Newtown—Home
Wed., Oct. 23	New Hope—Home
Wed., Oct. 30	Buckingham—Away
Wed., Nov. 6	Buckingham—Away
Wed., Nov. 13	Ballington—Away

MALE GRAPPLERS TO HOLD THE SPOTLIGHT

TRENTON, Oct. 2.—The orthodox male grapplers will stand on their own two feet tonight when ten outstanding heavyweights will hold forth at the Trenton Arena without the aid of the women wrestlers.

Warren Bockwinkle, or Bock, as he is known to the fans, turned in a dazzling win last Wednesday when he downed the boisterous Chief Chewacki to add that worthy's name to that of the Golden Terror on his list of Arena victims. Bock is rated the best young prospect in the sport and he has come to the fore with a bang. He gained the vengeance he sought when he pinned Chewacki, who maltreated Warren when the youngster was first learning the trade.

Now Warren faces the hard-bitten veteran, Lou Plummer. Lou has been hated by local fandom since first starting here last winter and their dislike increases with every appearance. Plummer reached a new high in unpopularity last Wednesday when he beat Sheriff Tom Hanley. Plummer is one of the surliest villains ever to tread the Arena canvas and his wins are always hotly resented by the fans.

An interesting semi-feature will be the special bout between Chewacki, the wacky gypsy, and Danno O'Mahoney, likable young Irishman. Both men were defeated in the wind-ups of the first two Arena shows and they will strive mightily to regain their winning strides.

Chris Zaharias, young Colorado best-farmer, will vie with Henry Piers, Holland favorite and a newcomer, Tiger Tasker of Alaska, will make his debut against the popular Hebrew, Abe Yourist.

The opener will pit Frank Judson, former wrestling coach at Harvard, opposed to Eddie Newman, New York rowdy.

BUCKS COUNTY BOYS TRY FOR PENN STATE SQUAD

Boys from this area have reported for the State College squad, which includes men from 135 to 250 pounds, in all sizes and shapes 85 members of Penn State's new freshman class turned out for football recently.

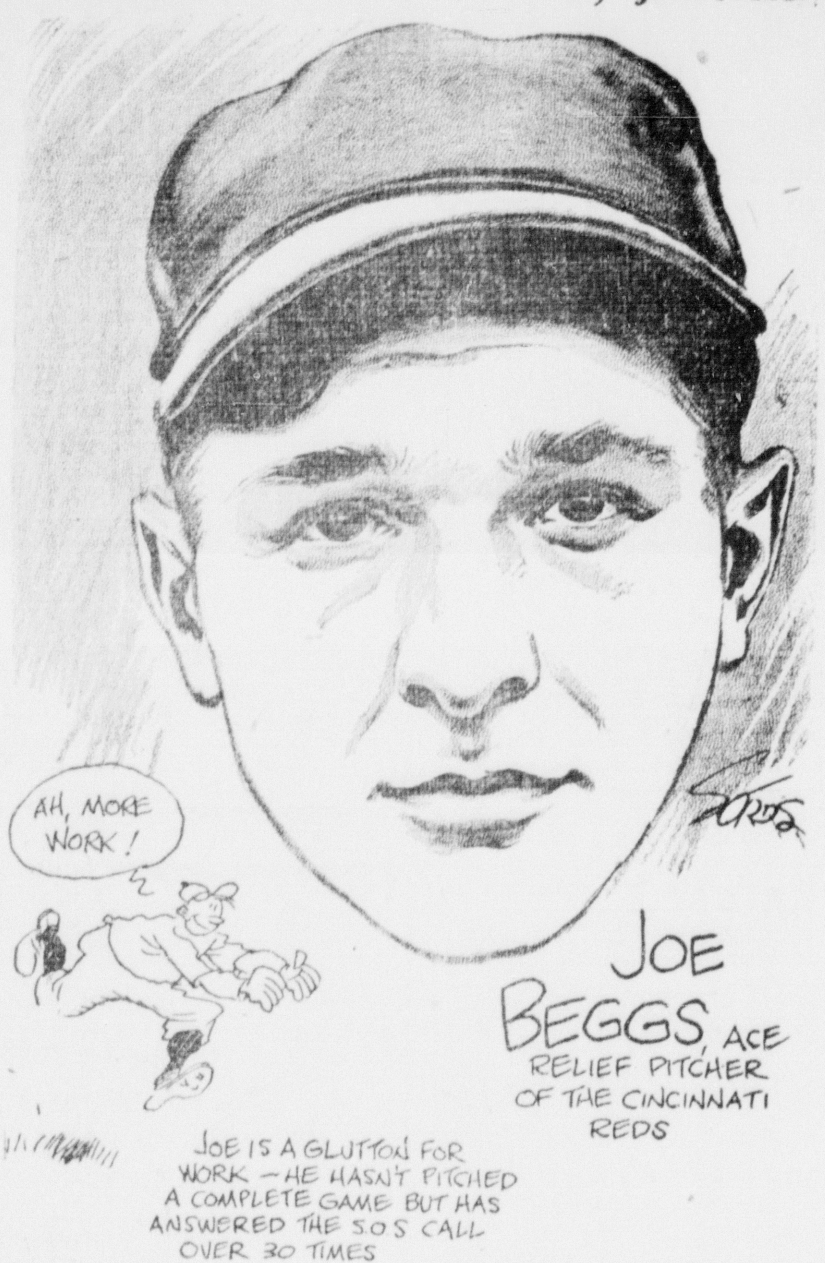

Only seven of the candidates are not residents of Pennsylvania. The heaviest was James Giombetti, 250-pound tackle from Jessup, and the lightest was six-foot-six David Hornstein, 190-pound back from Alliquippa. Finest of the gridiron hopefuls was Dick Cressman, 135 pounds, from Quakertown.

Among those who reported from the Bucks County district are: Wilber Van Leuten, who starred in 38 at Bristol High, is an end on the varsity this year. Others to report include: William Batten, center, Falls Township; Richard Cressman, Quakertown; Daniel DiMidio, Bristol; Harold Paylor, Quakertown.

A machine screw now made has a lock washer as an integral part of the head. It drives like an ordinary screw, eliminates lock washer assembling difficulties.

him the most attentive, although not the largest audience, he has had since he opened his campaign.

To Michigan's voters, Willkie offered a three-point program to produce jobs for the 9,600,000 unemployed in America.

His points in order were:

1. Encourage increased production.
2. Stabilize the tax structure.
3. Simplify government regulations and alter government attitude toward business.

To his Grand Rapids audience, Willkie gave his version of the state of the nation under the New Deal and then asked:

"The horse that floundered so and got us into midstream, is not the horse to get us out."

"The argument is being made that if I am elected, it will make such a change in government that the struc-

The board granted the use of the high school auditorium for the three evenings on which concerts are to be conducted by the Bristol Cooperative Concert Association.

Vote of thanks was given to the Girl Reserves for the fine rostrum and chairs which they have presented for stage use at the high school auditorium. The High-Y boys were also thanked for the presentation of a flag.

It was reported to the board that ball games are being played on the high school field on Sunday afternoons, without permission having been obtained for the use of the grounds. Case-hardened chains and locks placed on the gates are broken.

and die in their allotted time, "but the church improves with age. This church has stood for 100 years. Here the old Gospel story has been proclaimed. It has stood as a beacon light, letting its rays shine that men might find the way to God and then find their way out to lives of service and usefulness."

The contrast between youth and age brought forth the statement "Youth lives in ideals, hopes and dreams; age lives in memory. Both are represented here tonight." The skepticism of the days of yore when electric lights were in their infancy, when bathtubs were looked upon with distavor even by the medical profession, and when it was considered against the laws of God to attempt to ride at the terrific rate of 15 miles per hour on a railroad train was told of. Changes down through the years were traced, the Rev. Zerr then stating: "If today's heritage is tomorrow's responsibility, then you and I must think in terms of the days to come. The Church of Jesus Christ shall not fail. These are days when kingdoms are being torn from their hinges; earth, sea and sky are being rocked; women and children, and even men are helpless. Destruction and death are to be found on all sides, with property and populace suffering. We ask 'What have we to offer for such a day?' Our answer as Christians is 'Crowns and thrones may perish, kingdoms rise and wane. But the Church of Jesus, constant shall remain.'"

"What shall we say of tomorrow as the clouds of impending doom settle? Is there a light that can penetrate? What shall we say when uncertainty beats upon us on all sides, and fear grips us; and when three-fourths of the whole world is either engaged in bloody warfare or in preparation for it?"

"When the smoke has cleared away, and the debris and wreckage shall be set aside, there shall emerge the cross of Jesus Christ—the only hope for a broken world."

"To this dear Cross
The eyes of men are turning.
Today as in the ages lost to sight.
And so for Thee, O Christ,
Men's hearts are yearning.
As ship-wrecked seamen
Yearn for morning light."

"Christ alone is the panacea for the world's ills. Christ alone can cause the hearts of men to melt with love. . . God speed the day when the world will be brought to the saving knowledge of Jesus Christ."

The evening service was in charge of the local pastor, the Rev. Wilmer E. Harkness. The vocalist was Mrs. Otto Grupp, Jr., Croydon, her offerings being "The Good Shepherd" (Van de Water); and "Another Year Is Dawning" (Smith).

The opening session of the day was a women's meeting at 2.30, with Mrs. J. Stanley Jacoby, Philadelphia, as the speaker. Ministers and lay members of the Bucks County churches participated in the day's events, with approximately 50 served at a supper conference in the dining hall. The Ladies' Aid Society members served a baked ham dinner.

Speaker at the supper conference was Harvey F. Mack, a layman from Easton. Mr. Mack, who is vice president of the Easton Y. M. C. A., also a business man in that city, has for the past 24 years conducted successfully an "Every Member Canvass" annually for his church, being aided by other men of the church. Last evening he gave to the assemblage a concrete plan for an every member canvass, explaining it in detail, and mentioning the necessary steps. He stressed particularly the need of visiting every family in the church. "This is a work for the church members, not the pastor. The pastor comes to preach the Gospel; not to run the business of the church," he added. "The pastor comes and goes, but the layman goes on forever." Details of outlining the membership list, preparation of the budget, publicity, canvassers teams, subscription cards, report meetings, etc., were considered at length. In lining up teams of two for visitations, Mr. Mack advised that a poor solicitor be placed on the team with a good solicitor. "Don't put two good ones together, for you mustn't waste your timber. And also the poor solicitor will thus be given opportunity to become a good one."

Tomorrow evening at 7.45, a women's night program will be sponsored by the Ladies' Aid. Dr. Joseph W. Seay, Trenton, N. J., will speak.

Fierce Attacks in Africa

Rome, Oct. 2.—Capture of British mechanized equipment in the Libyan Desert and fierce Italian and RAF counter air raids over vast sectors of Africa were reported today in an official communique.

Nazis Hurl 600 Planes At England

London, Oct. 2.—Chancellor Hitler today hurled more than 600 warplanes at England, causing five air raid alarms to sound in London.

But RAF fighters and terrific anti-aircraft barrages broke up the raiders' formations and drove the greater portion of them back. Only a few managed to penetrate as far as the area of London.

Simultaneously the long-range shore batteries at Dover opened up on a German convoy, half-shrouded in mist, which was proceeding up the French coast on the other side of the channel. British dive bombers took off to attack the German ships, which were protected by fast motor torpedo boats ahead and astern. The shore batteries are said to have scored at least one direct hit.

During the morning three formations of approximately 150 planes each attempted to hammer through to the capital without success. This afternoon a similar Nazi attack group crossed the Kent coast, to be met and engaged in furious dogfights, and finally forced to jettison their bombs over open country.

An early announcement said that since midnight eight German planes had been downed and that no British aircraft were missing, but this figure is expected to change somewhat as a result of later operations.

As the fifth air raid of the day—15th of the war—was in progress, anti-aircraft guns could be heard in suburban areas.

The fifth raid warning sounded when a large Nazi formation came roaring up the Thames estuary, but were beaten back before reaching the capital.

ONE IN 250,000

CINCINNATI, O.—(INS)—"One in 250,000" is the description surgeons gave to 14-year-old Harley Busam. Taken to a hospital for an appendectomy, an examination disclosed that Harley's heart was on the right side of his chest, his appendix on the left side of the abdominal cavity and all other internal organs transposed. Surgeons said such cases probably occur not more than once in 250,000.

ABOUT SCOUTS AND SCOUTING

The material used in this column will be contributed by the Scribes of the following units and Scouters interested in the work: Bristol Presbyterian Church, Scout Troop 3002, Cub Pack 3002; Harriman Methodist Church, Scout Troop 3007; St. James' Episcopal Church, Scout Troop 3025, Cub Pack 3025; Group of Citizens headed by Walter Pitzonka, Troop No. 3048; Bristol B. P. O. E. Seascouts "Elks" 5052.

Omitted by our daily newspapers, as they told with tall headlines the German march through Flanders, is a story of keen interest to Scouts everywhere. It is the story of heroism and bravery in the face of danger, of helpfulness and kindly assistance given by the Scouts of France to the thousands of homeless refugees, mostly women and children and the aged, who, driven from their homes, choked the roads of France.

But these roads were needed by the Allies for supply lines and the resulting confusion and congestion made of them easy marks for bombing and strafing airplanes.

Many persons were killed, many more injured. Amidst this endless confusion and tragedy were the Scouts of France (there are three Scout Associations in France), doing everything possible to assist these unfortunate people. The Scouts formed First Aid Posts, acted as guides—were stationed at cross roads with maps, provided refreshments, and assisted in such a manner as can be done only by those Scout trained. For, through Scout training they had prepared themselves, as had no other group, for national emergency service work.

And all the time there was the knowledge their own homes were being destroyed. There were relatives and friends unheard from. Death from the sky was a steady threat. And always there was the fear that they too would have to flee from the advancing enemy.

But they stayed at their posts. They had a job to do. How well they served both their country and the Belgian refugees is reaffirmed by the numerous stories now heard of their bravery—the courage of boys under fire.

WHEN USING THE AXE

1. Never chop in such a position that the axe will cut you if it slips.
2. Never chop through wood on a hard surface.
3. Never chop pine or hemlock knots with a sharp axe.
4. If you carry an axe on your shoulder, always have the edge outward from your neck, otherwise you might stumble and be killed.
5. Always muzzle the axe in traveling. Carry axe by grasping handle close to the axe head with blade down and outward.
